

2019

ANNUAL REPORT

The Warren Center is a nonprofit agency that advocates, serves and empowers the children and families impacted by developmental delays and disabilities.

MESSAGE FROM OUR CEO

Fiscal Year 2019 was a remarkable year of growth for The Warren Center as we continue to expand our reach to provide professional evaluations, therapy services and support to children and families impacted by developmental delays and disabilities. When I first started with The Warren Center over 16 years ago, our program served only 200 children every week. In 2019, we provided services to over 1000 children weekly.

This is possible because of you.

In 2019, you helped us deliver 37,113 hours of therapy and provide programs to families focused on improving their quality of life and emotional well-being.

This growth has made increasing our supporter engagement and stewardship essential. As a result, we welcomed Leslie Clay, our new Vice President of Development, to the team. Her twenty years of experience in nonprofit fundraising strengthens our team, allowing us to further our mission.

Our vision is that all children with special needs reach their full potential. Together we made great strides in advocating for children with special needs throughout the state of Texas.

Though it fell short of the $72 million requested by the Texas Health and Human Services Commission, the Texas Legislature boosted Early Childhood Intervention funding by $31 million. This is a true victory for children needing life-changing therapy in the state. With your help, we will continue to endorse Early Childhood Intervention's role in feeding the pipeline to early childhood education.

There are more than 18,000 children in our service area needing the services The Warren Center provides. With your help, we are expanding our ability to reach each one. The vital programs and successes of The Warren Center are made possible through the support of generous donors like you. I hope you enjoy the following pages where you will see the impact your kindness and commitment has had over the past year.

On behalf of thousands of children and families whose lives are enhanced by your support, thank you.

With Gratitude,

Amy Spawn
CEO, The Warren Center

ABOUT THE WARREN CENTER

Fifty-two years ago, very few resources existed for parents of disabled children in Dallas County. With nowhere to turn for community-based services or help, families lacked support and their children had limited options in life. The Warren Center was created in 1968 and for decades, we have provided much-needed resources and care to children with disabilities and their families. Grassroots efforts and proven successes paved the way for an increase in community and parental awareness.

As our organization experienced growth, we began adapting our programs to meet the changing needs of families. Over the years, The Warren Center has given parents access to the resources their children needed, and more importantly, hope and support. We help children to reach their developmental goals through individualized therapy-based care and equip parents through monthly education workshops and support groups so they can be a confident advocate for their child.

Our Early Childhood Intervention (ECI) program for children age birth to three years old and Clinic Therapy Services for children age three to eight provides evaluations and personalized therapy sessions that includes occupational and physical therapy, speech and language therapy, feeding and nutrition therapy, specialized skills training, and transition assistance to additional services.

We also help parents whose children are in a program with family education and support services which include respite care and support groups – plus guidance to other needed services and resources.

MEET PENELOPE

Meet Penelope, an easy going toddler who loves to dance to music and spend time with her parents, Katie and Christian. When faced with the unexpected diagnosis of Down Syndrome, however, this family learned that even the most easygoing and close-knit families can benefit from access to a strong support system through The Warren Center.

After learning Penelope, had Down Syndrome only one week after discovering she was pregnant with Penelope in the first place, Katie initially did not know what to expect. Katie barely had time to adapt to the news of having a Down Syndrome child before giving birth to Penelope 4-5 weeks prematurely. Within minutes, medical personnel hooked Penelope up to oxygen and rushed the newborn to the neonatal intensive care unit where Katie and Christian did not see Penelope for the first time until five hours later.

The new parents soon learned that Penelope also had a heart condition common in Down Syndrome children that would require surgery at six months old. Penelope could not move or roll over following the surgery, and she needed special medication to prevent her heart from flooding. The procedure also included AB canal repair and cardiological monitoring since Penelope's heart had an extra valve. Fortunately, it was during surgical recovery at Children's Hospital that Katie and Christian first heard rave reviews about The Warren Center. After Penelope's pediatrician also recommended The Warren Center, Penelope's parents decided to sign up to help jumpstart her progress.

According to Katie, the pediatrician told them that The Warren Center “is a great place for her. She’ll grow here and they’ll give her the things she needs and she’ll kind of catch up.” Penelope began receiving services from The Warren Center approximately 7-8 months after surgery in October 2017.

Penelope’s parents soon observed an increase in Penelope’s motivation to try new things. “Before we started with The Warren Center, she didn’t really seem like she was interested in doing anything,” Katie explained. “She was smaller but of course they still have that attention span.

And now it seems like every time she sees a therapist, she’s like excited and she shows that she’s ready.” Penelope has also progressed in the areas of physical, speech, and specialized skills therapy (SST) and consistently puts learned skills to use. “She is showing more signs of wanting to do things and she’s excited to learn those new things and put those skills in action,” Katie said.

Penelope demonstrates newfound drive each time she receives therapy services. For example, in describing the positive impact of physical therapy, Katie explained, “She’s actually started to try to stand and walk on her own. Well she sees everybody twice month but even on her own she’s like, ‘Okay I can do this,’ and she kind of looks at it, looks at her situation and she at least tries, which is a big thing because before she didn’t really try anything.”

Katie and Christian are also happy that the therapists genuinely care about Penelope instead of just going through the motions. “They don’t just tell us what we want to hear. They give us the facts of it. And I feel like if we’re not comfortable with something, they kind of adjust it to where we understand, but at the same time it’s on a better basis for all of us,” Katie said.

Through the Warren Center, Katie and Christian learned much more about their daughter’s condition than they could have imagined. “Initially we thought okay Down syndrome is just a physical thing,” Katie explained. “We’ve asked a lot of questions between her therapists and we’ve learned quite a bit about it.”

Since The Warren Center provides a welcoming environment for parents and children, Katie and Christian believe that it is also the perfect resources for dispelling misconceptions about developmental differences. As she and Christian discussed the diagnosis between themselves, Katie affirmed, “We’re like okay, so it’s not a terrible thing. You know, it’s not something to be like disappointed or distraught about. It’s just a label that... I mean that’s how we’ve been looking at it.”

For Penelope and her parents, appointments at The Warren Center are more than just slots on a calendar. Instead, the support system for Penelope is more like a collaborative effort to help her live to the fullest. Katie states, “We’ve got a friendship with the therapists and you know with her social worker and I feel like they’re part of our family and they’re part of what we’re doing for her.” Katie concluded, “We love The Warren Center and we really appreciate everything that you guys have given us.”
